CORRECTION.—Little did I think when I commented some years ago on the lapse of an eminent scholar, who confounded Strepsiadēs and Pheidippides (Curtius, Studien, I 2, 275), that one day some editorial Puck would get astride of my pen and make me write 'Acharnian' for 'Megarian', as happened in the last number of the Journal (p. 242, l. 5). In my handwriting, it is true, Acharnian and Megarian are not so far apart, but I will not saddle printer or proofreader with my inadvertencies. Nor will I say that to the Greek scholar the error corrects itself, as the dialect is Megarian. Else Professor HUMPHREYS would not have called my attention to the matter. μετὰ καὶ τόδε τοῖσι γενέσθω.
